Focus Presents: Janet Young, All Organized Storage
Too Much Stuff and Not Enough Storage?

Many people feel that their life is out of control. They feel stressed, and are consumed with daily survival. Often they feel overwhelmed by the clutter in their homes, and are in “reaction mode,” unable to fully enjoy the present moment.

A first step in taking control of one’s life is to take control of the clutter at home—by organizing. On average, it’s been documented that most people spend an hour a day just looking for things. So, if you are organized and have proper storage, you’ll have an extra hour a day to enjoy your life. We all know that being organized reduces stress, but it also saves money and is more ecologically responsible because you don’t misplace things only to buy them over and over again.

Janet Young, a Trained Professional Organizer, brings guidance, vision, and high-quality storage solutions to those who are ready to experience order, calmness, and space in their lives. “Order inspires people to dream,” she explains. “If you are overwhelmed with your current life, you cannot dream. It may seem small, but when you open your closet and see order, it takes away another stress in your life, and frees up energy for you to make other changes as well. A beautiful and well-organized closet often starts a chain reaction to begin a process of improvement in all areas of life.”

Janet believes that adequate and appropriate storage is the key to reducing clutter. “With smaller homes and downsizing, as well as the explosion of consumerism, we need to maximize the storage we have. I see closets as the foundation of organization—without proper storage you cannot be organized,” she explains.

Janet is the only custom closet and storage provider in Victoria who is also a Trained Professional Organizer. The mother of two teenagers says, “I don’t see myself as selling but consulting and problem solving. I don’t have one product line but rather I offer a range of products to solve a variety of storage problems.”

Through her independent Victoria-based business, Janet carries four different closet lines (two of which are exclusive): a totally adjustable European modular line, custom melamine, solid wood slat, and high end custom cabinets. “I can mix and match them if needed to create the perfect solution. I am also willing to retrofit existing closets rather than ripping them out and starting all over if the bones of the closet are good.”

To solve the problem of access in lower cupboards and not being able to see what is your cupboards custom, deluxe rollout shelves are manufactured and installed to replace fixed shelves in your cupboards. “All my solutions are specific to solve your problems with the ultimate goal to bring order, calmness, and space into your life,” says Janet, who uses BC and local products as much as possible. Her innovative products can be seen in her showroom at Focus on Patio behind Lee Valley Tools.

If you are yearning for more space, more time, and less stress, call Janet Young, your Trained Personal Organizer, for an in-home consultation. She specializes in creating elegant storage solutions for you that will unlock your highest potential.
